

Screening ferry traffic to Whidbey Island, WA makes about as much sense as screening every person entering the subways in New York. You are welcome to have your doggies sniff my auto, but the good people of Washington State will not hold still for intrusive and unconstitutional searches of their persons, possessions and vehicles.